

2. What are your greatest strengths?
41. You've been with your firm a long time. Won't it be hard switching to a new company?
3. What are your greatest weaknesses?
46. How many hours a week do you normally work?
6. The 'silent treatment'.
50. Have you considered starting your own business?
7. Why should I hire you?
51. What are your goals?
9. Where do you see yourself five years from now?
58. How do you define success and how do you measure up to your own definition?

Answers:

2. My greatest strengths are ability to learn quickly and I enjoy working with team.
41. I have enjoyed with my current firm and learned a lot with them but I'm also excited to get new challenges and opportunities that provides by the new company. so I can develop my skills from different dynamic environment.

3. I tend to be a perfectionist so that sometimes I take more time than necessary on some tasks. So it can be my weakness.
46. Normally I can work around 55 to 60 hours a week and I am flexible to adjust my working hours depends on need and the team.
6. I handle that situation calmly and try to understand the reasons. I talk it out with the team to keep relationship smooth.
50. Right now, I am focused on developing my skills in data science and I want to apply it in dynamic environment but in future, If I get a chance to start my own business then I will start.
7. You should hire me because I have an ability to learn quickly and highly adaptable so that I can adapt any change in technical skills. I also stay updated and believe in continuous learning.

51. My short term goal is to get hands on experience and develop my skills in data sciend. My long term goal is to grow into a senior role, so I can mentor others and contribute myself with the team and the company also.

9. Next few years, I will focus on developing my skills and get practical experience in data science. I want to get my expertise in machine learning, deep learning and natural language processing and then I want to lead into a senior data scientist role where I can mentor others and drive impactful projects.

58. I define success as making consistent progress towards my goals and earning respect from others. I measure this by setting goals, tracking my improvements and working well with team.